

There is no way to represent the fact that a flight leaves from a airport in a day since there is no way to denote an attribute being unique relative to another attribute.